Pueblo Release Hopes Rise

SEOUL (AP) — Hopes rose again today for the release of Korean crewmen with the Vance that it wants to take back conclusion of the fifth private operational control of South Korean officials and the United States currently has pending arrival of U.S. trouble shooter Cyrus Vance, North Korea's U.N. Sources also said that South Korean leaders is seen as a major though unannounced purpose of Vance's visit. South Koreans have been piqued by what they regard as the U.S. stress on the Pueblo incident and relative inattention to the Communist guerrilla attempt on the life of President Chung Hee Park.

The White House said Friday that Vance was going to Seoul to see Park about "the measures to be taken by our two governments to deal with a North Korea suddenly grown more pugnacious."

There have been calls from Korean legislators and student demonstrators for a firmer U.S. stance toward the Communists.

In a development from Washington, U.S. officials disclosed that eight Communist MIG jet fighters were overhead during intelligence gathering ship Jan. 23. The officials also said that by piecing together various scraps of intelligence they have determined that numerous shots were fired across the Pueblo's bow before she was halted.

Contradicting earlier U.S. statements that the Pueblo had observed radio silence from Jan. 10 to Jan. 21, the officials said the ship transmitted a routine radio message on Jan. 20, three days before her capture, indicating that she was outside North Korea's 12-mile limit.

North Korea has demanded an American admission that the Pueblo violated Communist territorial waters, an apology and a promise that it won't happen again. The Communists say this is a prerequisite for the crew's release.

These sources also reported that the American military was making special preparations to receive any crewmen who might be released. Similar preparations were made last Wednesday when hopes were high, but U.S. officials deny that any crewmen were received.

The newspaper Shin-Ilbo

said Friday the Communists were likely to return the body and the three injured crewmen within the next few days.

The paper also said the entire crew had been moved to the Communist border town of Kaesong, less than 10 miles from the truce village of Panmunjom, in readiness for their eventual return to the U.S. side. The newspaper quoted "government sources."

However, reliable sources in Seoul said that some of the captured Americans were paraded through the streets of Pyongyang.

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!

We believe that the Interstate Commerce Commission is making a mistake to let the railroads discontinue their passenger trains just because they are losing money.

Without much thought we agreed with the railroads that they should be relieved of their losses. Now we disagree with the authorizations to discontinue unless the entire railroad operation is losing money.

We issue some papers on some days when we lose money on them, but the overall weeks production shows a profit. We would like to discontinue the losing papers, but if we did so we would not be fulfilling our obligation to our subscribers or the public.

The railroads should be forced to put their passenger trains back in operation and maintain them as they did before the days of buses, planes and passenger cars.

If their employers were cautious and they advertised for business as the plane companies do, they could recapture a lot of business.

SEN. SYMINGTON'S WISE COUNSEL

Our state's senior U.S. Senator has, we believe, offered some wise counsel in connection with the U.S.S. Pueblo incident in North Korean waters, and while his views may not coincide with those held by a majority of Missourians or Americans, we suspect time will prove his advice sound.

Sen. Symington said this week he believes it would be unwise, and has warned against, any military attempt to rescue the super-secret naval vessel that was captured by the North Koreans, for such an attempt would commit this nation to military action for which it is not prepared.

Noting that both the ship's instruments and its crew members have long since been secreted away by the communists, our state's senior lawmaker asks the very simple but pertinent question: Where would we look for them?

Sen. Symington believes that because of our major commitments in South Vietnam, we presently have neither the men nor the equipment to move with any success against North Koreans. This appraisal comes from a man who is a member of the Senate Armed Service Committee and perhaps is the most frightening aspect of the Pueblo incident -- the realization that we are so greatly committed in Vietnam that we have little left to move against other attacks in Asia.

Said the Senator: "If we became involved in a war of this character, the number of reservists recently called up with their relatively obsolescent equipment is comparable to a pail of water in a large pool."

Sen. Symington believes it is possible that we have extended ourselves so far in Vietnam that the only tactical strength we now possess elsewhere is the use of the nuclear bomb, a weapon that is certainly out of the question in the Pueblo case.

It becomes more than a little clear, even to the extreme jingoists such as Governor Reagan who apparently favors an immediate invasion of North Korea, that we have become so enmeshed in political and military affairs in the Far East that our ability to deal with problems elsewhere around the globe is extremely limited. Moreover, this ability to deal with problems elsewhere is growing less and less as we continue our present course in Vietnam.

This is not to say that we necessarily agree that any kind of withdrawal be started in South Vietnam, at least not at the present time. But the demand of a vast majority of Americans for immediate military action against the North Koreans is not a realistic one, certainly not so under the conditions outlined by Sen. Symington.

The growing number of incidents in Korea was noted, interestingly, by Sen. Symington on his next-to-last trip to the Far East. After noting the several hundred incidents occurring against the U.S. and South Korea by the communists, Sen. Symington at that time recommended more attention be paid to this troubled spot. The suggestion went unheeded, and the U.S.S. Pueblo sailed into waters without any kind of an escort. The result was shattering news that has caused further despair in this country concerning our ability to police all of the Far East.

We find ourselves, for the most part, agreeing with Sen. Symington. The difficulty is not in finding others who agree but in finding solutions to the nagging and overriding problem of U.S. commitments in the Far East and how we can eventually resolve those commitments.

The Pueblo incident has most certainly under-scored the gravity of our nation's position in Asia.

Washington-Merry-Go-Round

By Drew Pearson

DREW PEARSON SAYS:

Saigon seige shows USA not welcome in South Vietnam; Gen. Westmoreland should be transferred; his strategy should be changed.

WASHINGTON -- The recent shellacking which the United States, a nation of 190,000,000, took from a nation of 16,000,000 proves conclusively that we had better reverse our war strategy in Vietnam and fire those responsible for mistakes.

It should begin with the General who last week said that Saigon was secure and the situation was "very, very encouraging," when as a matter of cold fact the city was so insecure that its inhabitants were partially barred from the streets, the airport remained closed, some police stations remained in the hands of the enemy, and the city remained in a virtual state of seige.

Either Gen. William Westmoreland did not know what he was talking about, or he was deliberately adding to the credibility gap. In any event, he did not know what had been happening all around him before the enemy struck.

For this strike had required weeks of preparation, the storing of weapons, the digging of tunnels, the recruiting and subversion of personnel. Two chauffeurs of the American Embassy were subverted. All this was done right under the nose of Gen. Westmoreland and his intelligence officers. It could not have been accomplished without vast help from a civilian population which has become more and more resentful of the American occupation.

The results were so devastating that they must be faced frankly by the administration and weighed carefully by appropriate committees of congress. To do otherwise would be a disservice. Blindness is not patriotism.

The results can be summarized as follows:

U.S. LOSES FACE

No. 1 -- The Viet Cong overrunning of South Vietnam might be compared to an enemy occupation of our old Capitol of Philadelphia, the capture of City Hall in New York, and the penetration of the Washington police department and the stores along Pennsylvania Avenue.

No. 2 -- We are no longer the saviors of the people we have set out to save. On the contrary, we are a pain in the neck and a menace to them. Our methods of protecting them necessarily is to knock down their buildings with bombs and artillery fire. People don't like to have their homes destroyed. This is the sort of protection they can do without.

Secretary of defense McNamara has been warning that too many U.S. troops in South Vietnam would wear out our welcome. His advice has spurned and McNamara is now out. The South Vietnamese went out also.

No. 3 -- We have lost tremendous "face," and face is all important in the Orient. We have the mightiest military establishment in the world, which too long ago defeated two European dictators plus the Japanese warlords; yet we have been bogged down, and in effect, defeated by a tiny nation no bigger than Washington State.

This has sent snickers all up and down the China Coast. The white man, say the yellow men of Asia, at last has come a cropper. It's also caused concern among our European allies.

It makes no difference that Gen. Westmoreland says the situation is "very, very encouraging" or that President Johnson, misguided by Westmoreland's advice, says that the Viet Cong's attack was a "complete failure." The fact is it was not a failure and the situation is not encouraging. To make it encouraging we must drastically revise strategy.

SEARCH AND DESTROY

Gen. Westmoreland's basic strategy is "search and destroy" -- namely, sending U.S. troops into the jungles to search out the Viet Cong and destroy them. In these battles American troops have never fought more courageously. But once they have located the enemy and driven him out, they have had to occupy the area to keep the Viet Cong from walking right back. This ties down too many American troops.

Various experts have recommended that we eliminate "search and destroy" tactics, let the countryside take care of itself and concentrate on making the cities secure. Since the cities obviously are not secure today, we will have to concentrate on them or else get out of Vietnam altogether.

LBJ AND ABE LINCOLN

President Johnson, who has been studying Abraham Lincoln in promoting education and civil rights, might follow Lincoln's example in dealing with his military. He fired general after general responsible for failure.

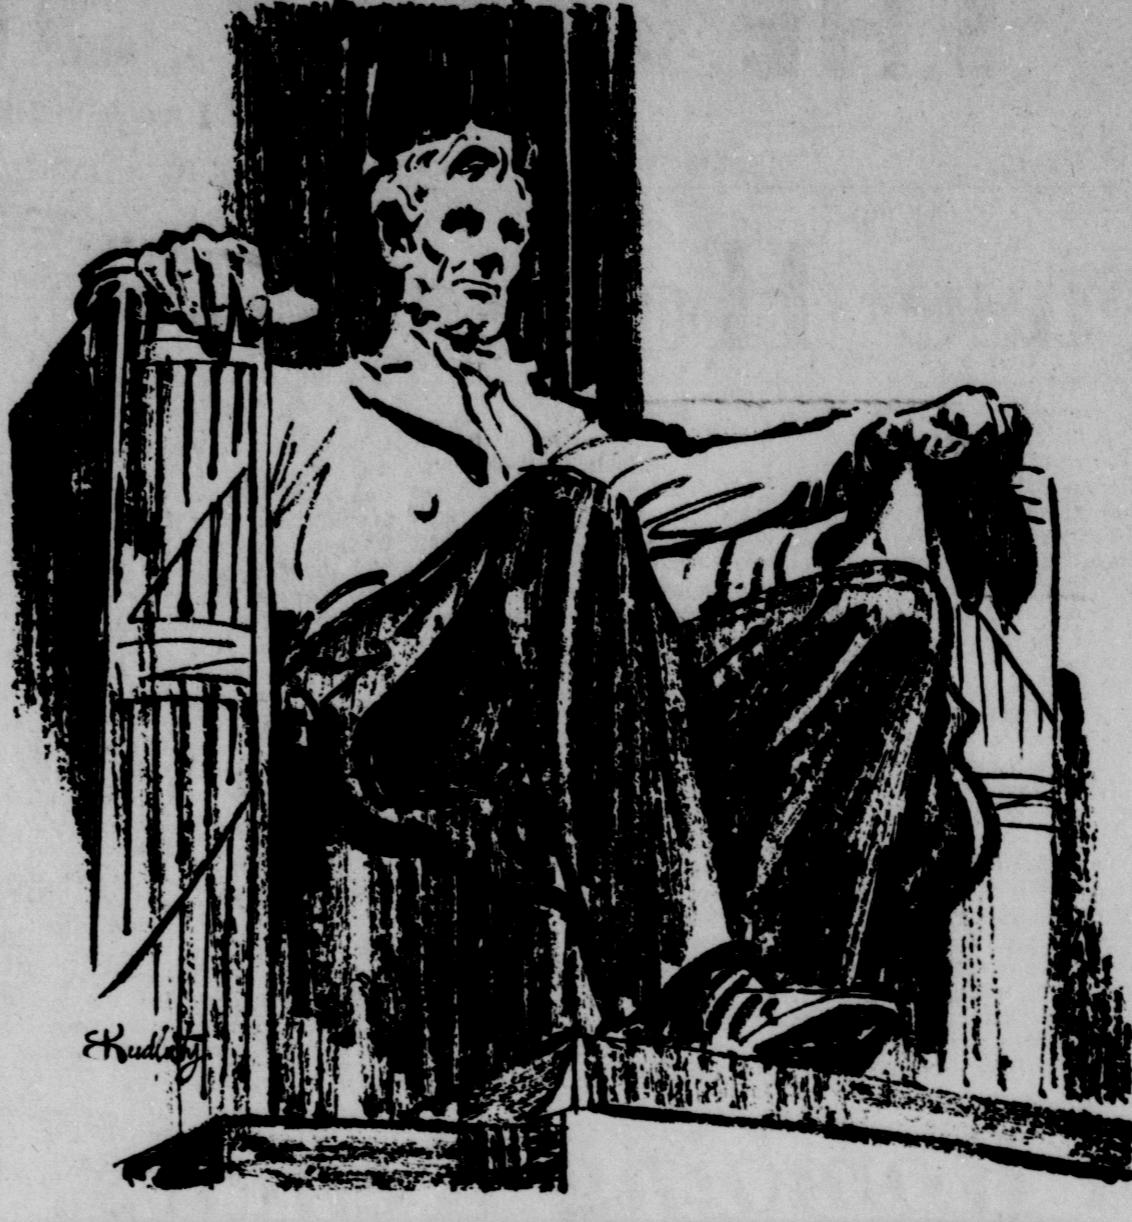

He fired Gen. George B. McClellan after some of the worst catastrophes of the war, including the Battle of Bull Run. He accepted Gen. Joe Hooker's resignation after the second advance into union territory of Confederate forces. (Hooker lost his support after the retreat at Chancellorsville when Lee turned his troops around.)

Lincoln also fired Maj. Gen. John Pope after he failed in the second battle of Bull Run. He accepted Gen. Joe Hooker's resignation after the second advance into union territory of Confederate forces. (Hooker lost his support after the retreat at Chancellorsville when Lee turned his troops around.)

Gen. William Starke Rosecrans was fired after his defeat at the Battle of Chickamauga and after being besieged at Chattanooga.

President Johnson, on con-trast, has stuck with his military men even when they led him astray.

Our generation has made things an end in themselves and people a means to an end. The judgment for this sin has been a failure to find sufficient purpose to sustain life at a high level of satisfaction. Thousands of people have found affluence and comfort alone do not bring them fulfillment. The answer is for childhood religious faith to grow to the point where it can serve adult needs, change values and give purpose. You might begin growing by church attendance Sunday.

Jays Clipped 64-62 Oran Heads For Regional 26-2

DON EVANS (42) of Oran runs into heavy traffic under the basket in last night's basketball game at Charleston. Evans handed off to Teammate Elbert Williams, who laid it in for two points. Oran edged to a 64-62 victory, its 26th.

Dogs Back In Race; Townes Sparkles

By Paul Ellidge

The Sikeston high school basketball squad's aggressiveness and never-ending hustle paved the way for victory last night.

Meeting Poplar Bluff for the second time in two weeks, the Bulldogs scrambled their way to an impressive 48-42 triumph before a near-capacity crowd at the Armory.

Numerous steals by the Sikeston defense, a 37 percent-shooting average, excellent blocking of shots by Fred Townes, and all-around defensive work by the team were highlights.

The Bulldogs' pressure defense, utilizing a zone defense, which has not been used in a long time, forced the Poplar Bluff Mules into a number of floor errors and costly turnovers.

Coach N. P. McDaniel said that Fred Townes was the biggest factor in the game for the Bulldogs. A zone defense forced the Mules to make mistakes and it gave the Bulldogs a chance to make a couple of quick baskets.

Excellent ball handling and a strong passing attack were responsible for the barrage in the second quarter.

Gary Wiss did his usual fine job in the scoring department but Townes was the main scorer. Townes swished in 11 field goals and two free throws for a total of 24 points. He also blocked 10 shots and pulled down 26 rebounds out of 39 rebounds that the Bulldogs grabbed.

The Bulldogs started out strongly and moved out to an 11-5 lead after one quarter of play. In the second quarter the six conference foot two inch Townes played a good defensive game. The Mules still were cold. In the third quarter the Mules only scored nine points while the quick breaks and great defensive work of the Bulldogs bucketed 16 points.

The third quarter saw the Mules score two points, every time the Dogs did to put the score at the end of the third quarter 38-26.

The Mules came back in the last quarter by making 16 points to the Bulldogs' nine. Townes was a big factor.

In the past the Bulldogs won if big Townes had a good night. Last night Big Fred had a great night, pulling down 26 rebounds.

The Mules shot cold all night with probably their worst performance from the field. Sikeston also had troubles hitting the goal.

The Mules shot a cold 28 percent from the field and a 42 percent from the free throw line. The Bulldogs shot 37 percent from the field, and 41 percent from the free throw line.

CHARLESTON - Oran ended its regular high school season basketball schedule last night by outlasting a determined Charleston quintet, 64-62, after the Jays junior varsity won 63-46.

Oran faces a week layoff before going into the Illinois-Scott City Class M regional tournament with a 26-2 record and confronting a trio of other 20-game winners.

It was a typical Oran-Charleston game, close and fast moving. Charleston battled back time after time as Oran ran up 10 point leads on the inspiration and scoring of Ruben Brown and four other double figure pointmakers.

The Bluejays played Oran's game and almost took it but muffed its chance with the ball with six seconds remaining. Don Evans stole the ball with one second remaining. Defense was a feature of last period had ended. The Jays of

General Foods Buys
Burger Chef Systems

WHITE PLAINS, N.Y. - General Foods Corporation has completed the purchase for 15 million dollars of Burger Chef Systems, Inc., Indianapolis, it was announced Monday.

The chain of more than 700 hamburger specialty restaurants serve more than one million people daily, including those patronizing four Memphis units. Ten years ago, Burger Chef had only eight locations.

C. W. Cook, General Foods Chairman, said, "The greatest growth in the food industry in 1968 is expected in the eating-out category, such as restaurants, snack bars and drive-ins. Sales in this market will climb nearly four per cent this year, creating a record high of $8 billion dollars."

from
The Upper Room

The kingdom of God does not mean food and drink but righteousness and peace and joy in the Holy Spirit. (Romans 14:17, RSV)
PRAYER: O God, to whom be long glory, laud, and honor, rule in our hearts this day and evermore. May no earthly condition keep us from experiencing Thy love and peace. In the Savior's name. Amen.

Dear Ann Landers: This is for "Accompanied But Alone" -- the woman who complained because every time she and her husband go to a party he belts down three martinis the moment they arrive and within half an hour he passes out cold and misses everything.

Charles Frank, who has been employed for several years by Sikeston Mercantile Co., began work Monday as salesman for the Citizens Store Co.

40 years ago
Feb. 10, 1928
C. E. Bratt, who has been employed in Cairo, has accepted a position with the Bryan Laundry, Inc., at Cape Girardeau.

When George Head and John Chaney installed 65 telephones in Sikeston homes and business places 30 years ago for free trials and strung private wires all over the town, all but a handful of the citizens declared they were crazy. And Mr. Chaney, who became the first switchboard operator, wasn't so certain himself that it was altogether a wise venture. But he was getting $2 a day so he built lines and said nothing.

The first month of the trials came to a close and few people were impressed with the idea of the wire - communication machines. At the close of the second month a checkup was discouraging. Only 13 of the 65 phones wanted to keep their telephones. Soon the citizens began to fall in line, however, and the little system grew steadily. Today there are over 600 phones in the city proper. The first phone installed for anyone in Sikeston before the trial by the Sikeston telephone company directed by Mr. Head and Mrs. Chaney was one belonging to the old Sikes-McMullin Mercantile Co., now the Sikeston Mercantile Co. That phone, a desk telephone, is still in use at the store.

30 years ago
Feb. 10, 1938
Efforts of the Sikeston Bulldogs in cutting off the narrow lead at the last of the game, giving them the win, paid off.

Mr. Chaney evidently went from the kitchen to a closet in which the fire was confined. It is believed that when he opened the door the flames shot outward into his face, causing him to breath the flames. His body was not discovered until the firemen were backing out after soaking the burning portion with water. Mr. and Mrs. Thatcher Seism and son moved Monday to Cape Girardeau, where they have bought a new home. The residence, which they vacated at 226 Dorothy street, will be occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Charles G. Lindley.

Babies born at the hospital include: A son on the sixth for Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Ramsey; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Green of Bertrand had a daughter on the fifth; A son was born on the fourth to Mr. and Mrs. George Midkiff of Morehouse and two daughters were born yesterday to Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Busby of Sikeston and Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Goza of Essex.

Why would a highly intelligent man want to present such an unattractive image of himself? If you can figure it out you are a lot smarter than I am. Please print this. If he reads it, it might help. -- BAFFLED

Dear Baff: This "highly intelligent man" hasn't the foggiest idea what the image he presents when he's bombed. If you try to tell him he is sure you are exaggerating.

Cape Girardeau Man Charges False Arrest

CAPE GIRARDEAU - A Cape Girardeau man has accused city police of making a false arrest and conducting an illegal search and seizure in connection with a raid on his home here Tuesday. Police deny any illegal activity and say their case needs no defense.

James W. Baylor, 47, of Capahaha Trail made the charge, contending city officers had made an arrest, search and confiscation without warrants.

Baylor charged that Detective
Jack Theriac and Sgt. Eugene J.
Gessert illegally arrested him
at Police Headquarters Tuesday when he went there inquiring about his daughter.

Baylor also directed his charges against the two officers in connection with the search and seizure.

Police reported at the time that Baylor was arrested on a charge of contributing to the delinquency of a minor.

Earlier Tuesday, officers had arrested four juveniles on truancy charges at the Baylor home and said they confiscated numerous items.

Baylor said the false arrest stemmed from the fact police made no formal charge, had no warrant and no evidence that he had aided, encouraged or caused any minors
to participate in any illegal conduct.

He explained he was not aware of what was happening at his home because he was at work. "How could I be guilty of a crime when I didn't even have knowledge of it?" he questioned.

Police put him in a cell, he went on to say, and made him sign a property bond for release before any charge had even been filed.

The charged listed on the official arrest report says: "Hold pending charges (state) contributing to the delinquency of a minor (released)."

It was not signed by any officer as required before charges become official. There is no city ordinance covering this.

Baylor said no state warrant has been served on him either, who said they were carrying 22 pounds of heroin worth $10 million. He said he remained free on bond on the retail market, today but there is still no charge. Agents said the heroin seizure reported to police at 7:59 p.m.

Friday that his house was entered between 6 p.m. and 7:50 p.m. and a single shot 16 gauge took numerous items which belonged to the family and left the residence in an upturned condition.

Baylor added that officers took pictures of the home's condition to use as evidence. His lawyer issued this statement:

"Mr. Baylor feels his arrest and confinement in city jail was without legal cause. He also feels the ransacking of his house without a search warrant while he was at work and confiscation of numerous of no apparent reason were outragous acts not to be tolerated in a free society.

"He asked me to investigate the possibility of instituting legal action in an attempt to compensate him for his loss of property, some of which police deny taking and now possessing, for his loss of reputation and embarrassment and for violation of his right to be secure in his home from searches and seizures such as this."

Detective Theriac gave this statement:

There will be no debate in the newspaper from this office with any attorney in regard to any case. The Baylor case is legal and needs no defending on my part.

"I question the legality of any defense attorney attacking the integrity of a police officer in defense of the attorney's client before the case has a chance to be heard in court.

"However, it seems to be a national trend and a new technique to degrade and lower the effectiveness of police operations."

He said after police forced their way into the home without a warrant, they ransacked everything, took numerous items which belonged to the family and left the door in the rear of the house, police reported.

McQuigg, climatologist, Columbia; Cecil Carney, Memphis, weather forecaster; Dr. Wayne Decker, Columbia, professor of atmospheric science at the University of Missouri; Leonard Hand, meteorologist, Delta Center Portageville; and Fereidoon Hashemi, graduate student from Iran, at the University of Missouri in Columbia.

Farmers Told How to Use Weather Data

Fifty heard a discussion of talk.

"Weather Relationships in Irrigation Practices," by seven specialists Friday at Two Tony's restaurant on West Malone Avenue.

Farmers were told how to use weather information for irrigation.

A new atmospheric science department has been opened at the University of Missouri, Columbia, with Dr. Wayne Decker, in charge. He explained water use by plants in an illustrated season.

Leonard Hand, meteorologist timing irrigation practices, at the Delta Center, Portageville, discussed water used by plants through evaporation of the moisture.
